

- This book teaches children that no matter what shape, size, or color you are if you love one another you are a family.

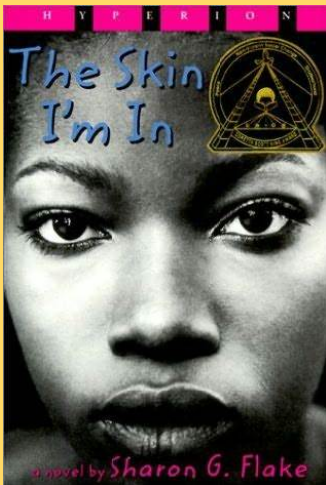

- This picture book teaches children to embrace where they came from and have confidence in who they are

- This book teaches children that race and ethnicity are not dividing lines in our society and that we can coexist with one another

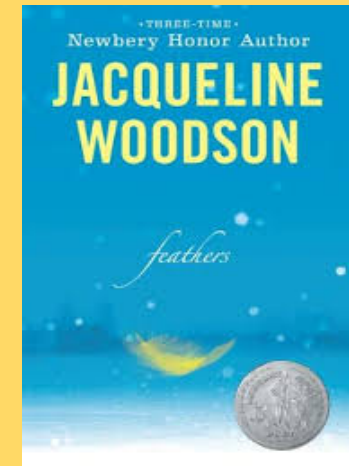

- This book teaches children to be themselves in new areas or new experiences and to embrace their culture.

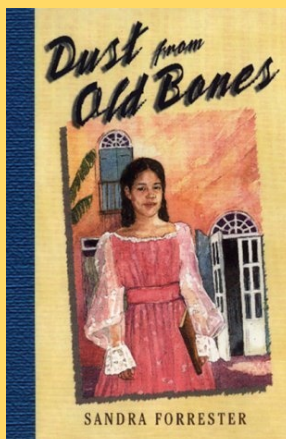

- This book teaches children to be comfortable in their own skin and to stand up for themselves.

- This book teaches kids that just because some are born with disabilities doesn't mean they are different and need to have the same confidence you and I have.

- This book focuses on children's differences and how everyone feels different at some point but they shouldn't be scrutinized for it.

- This book also helps children to be comfortable in their own skin.

- This book is about a girl who has a hearing aid and it makes her look different. This helps teach children to learn to accept others differences.